Sen. McCarthy Investigates Army Doctor

Pfc. Marvin Belsky Refuses to State If He's Communist

WASHINGTON (P)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) carried his search for Army Communists today into a public hearing at which an Army doctor refused to tell whether he was a Red.

The doctor, Pfc. Marvin S. Belsky, said he has been denied an officer's commission. He refused to tell McCarthy's Senate Investigations subcommittee whether he believes this was because, as McCarthy expressed it, he was "a member of the Communist conspiracy."

Belsky challenged the subcommittee's right to ask him any questions.

"I am a soldier under the jurisdiction only of the President of the United States as commander-in-chief," Belsky said. "This committee has no jurisdiction over me."

Rejecting that argument, McCarthy said President Eisenhower at a news conference yesterday had stated that all Army and government witnesses should "willingly and cheerfully give testimony" so long as it did not endanger security.

Belsky is assigned to the Army's Murphy General Hospital at Waltham, Mass.

McCarthy had originally planned to question Belsky only at a closed door hearing. He had said the public session witnesses would be quizzed concerning his accusations of Communist spying at the federal telecommunications laboratory at Nutley, N. J. He declined to say whether they would be questioned later today, and kept their names secret until they are called.

McCarthy and Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) sat through the half hour closed session—Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) came in for its last half—before the public hearing opened. Sens. Dirksen (R-Ill.) and Potter (R-Mich.) showed up for the public hearing.

Democrats Charge Phoney Savings In Budge Cuts

WASHINGTON (P)—Democrats fired charges of "phoney savings" at Republican budget trimming today as the House wrangled over a bill appropriating $1,146,988,000 to finance the State, Justice and Commerce departments for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

Maritime and airline subsidies, along with the federal highway aid program—touched off hot disputes over government spending.

In yesterday's initial action, the House voted tentatively to hold back nearly half the $3 million dollars requested by the Eisenhower administration to subsidize American airlines for the coming year.

Two More Meetings for Public Here On Recreation Program

Sedilians have certainly become recreational minded in the past few days. Perhaps they always were, but they didn't know what to do about it. Now with Mrs. Anne Livingston, director from the National Recreational Association, here, those who have heard her are asking for more.

There is only one more day that people in this community will have the opportunity to hear Mrs. Livingston and learn her ideas on how to coordinate a good recreational program for everybody. This, however, includes no night meetings.

There will be a meeting at the Smith-Cotton High School Little Theatre at 10 a.m. Friday and another one at 2 p.m. at the high school cafeteria. These meetings are open to anyone interested in the program and large crowds are expected to attend.

Partly cloudy and not so cold tonight. Friday increasing cloudiness with slowly rising temperatures. Low tonight near 20. High Friday in the 40s.

The temperature at 7 a.m. was 13, at 1 p.m. 32, and 33 at 2 p.m.

One year ago today here high 42, low 16; snow 1.05 inch of precipitation. Two years ago high 33, low 13; snow .30 precipitation. Three years ago high 51, low 25.

Stage at Lake of the Ozarks: 44.0, steady.

Breaking a Record

It might not sound like a record if it not to snow here today, but it is nevertheless. And in a season noted for a lack of moisture, that is a big event. It is breaking a record because it has snowed on March 4 the past two years. A year ago it was a good moisture day, too, one of the best of the year.

McCarthy said he was especially interested in Belsky "because you are a doctor at the hospital that serves 'Project Lincoln,' the topmost secret radar project we have in this country."

At one point, the witness corrected McCarthy who addressed him as "Mr. Belsky."

"Please, Mr. Senator, it's Dr. Belsky," he said.

He also asked:

"What am I accused of and who accused me?"

"I'm not sure you're accused of anything," McCarthy replied. He said Belsky was there because the subcommittee had received "information that you are an active member of the Communist conspiracy" and that the investigation was part of investigations of "communism in the Army" and in the government and the defense effort generally.

McCarthy said he was especially interested in Belsky "because you are a doctor at the hospital that serves 'Project Lincoln,' the topmost secret radar project we have in this country."

Praise For Ike's Stand

His 'Fair Play' For Congressional Investigations Gets Popular Support

WASHINGTON (P)—The White House reported today that President Eisenhower has received "hundreds" of telegrams praising his call for "fair play" in congressional investigations—a call widely accepted as a rebuke to Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, told newsmen he had no exact count but the total was "in the hundreds" and they ran 9 to 1 in praise of the President.

McCarthy, meantime, renewed his digging into what he calls Army "coddling of Communists" with a hearing at the Capitol.

Also in the aftermath of the Eisenhower-McCarthy exchange:

1. There were signs the White House is seeking to strengthen its ties with other Republicans on McCarthy's Senate Investigations subcommittee.

Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) was invited in for breakfast with Eisenhower and Sen. Mundt (R-Sd.) was a caller later in the day.

2. In a New York speech, Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall ridiculed talk of a breach in the GOP. He said it was "nonsense" to assert that personality clashes have the Republicans "split irrevocably"—an idea he said the Democrats seek to foster.

Sen. Mundt, who called after the President went to his office, said his chief purpose had been to ask that Eisenhower endorse "Know Your America Week," June 13-19.

Mundt said there was no discussion of the controversy between the administration and McCarthy.

Asked what he thought of that controversy, the senator replied:

"I think it is pretty well settling down to normal and that we will proceed without any new flare up."

West Germany Readies Way For Re-arming

Pushes Aside French Protest, Arranges Constitution Change

BOON, Germany (P)—A French protest notwithstanding, the Bonn government planned today to push through projected constitutional changes to pave the way for the eventual West German rearmament.

Both houses of the Legislature yesterday adopted resolutions urging the Democratic governor to broaden his special session call to include school financing.

Rep. Max Myers (R) of Jasper County, House appropriations chairman, said the vote for today's resolution "was practically unanimous—it was a voice vote." The record showed only that the resolution won a majority of the estimated 20 members present.

The resolution said that at mid-February there was $9,411,632 in the postwar reserve fund and $12,273,568 in the general revenue fund. It added that to keep the money for schools available neither of those funds would be cut below a $94 million balance.

But Donnelly recommended total appropriations of $3,864,931 and if they were enacted in full one or the other of the funds would have to be cut below the $94 million floor.

Even with the new threat of more wrangling over the school aid issue, one Republican member expressed himself as "disgusted."

One More Man Dies In Mystery Poisoning

PALERMO, Sicily (P)—Eight henchmen of the slain Sicilian bandit King Salvatore Giuliano fell to the floor writhing in pain halfway through their noon meal in prison here yesterday. One of them died and the police said today all eight were poisoned.

It was the second poison death in the local prison among the lieutenants of the fabolous bandit whose gang held Sicily in a reign of terror for years until he was killed in 1950.

With the new threat of more wrangling over the school aid issue, one Republican member expressed himself as "disgusted."

Bob Thomas In Hollywood--

Betty Grable Back at Work, Won't Knock Herself Out'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — Betty Grable, the girl with the gorgeous gams, is hard at work on her first picture since leaving her old home lot. But she says she's not going to knock herself out for her career.

"Look, I've had it," she says. "I've had the gravy for a good number of years, and I've enjoyed it. Now let the younger kids work their heads off. Not me. I've got other things in life to be interested in."

The other things include her husband, Harry James, their two daughters and their race horses, including the fleet James Session.

"I've enjoyed just looking after them for a change," says Betty. "I feel like a lousy mother when I didn't want to do the picture. After I left Fox, they came to me again and I said I wanted things I didn't think they would give me. They surprised me and came through with everything I wanted, including CinemaScope. So I had to give in."

"I'm not going to knock myself out for my career. This is the pattern I have been following for the last four or five years. I was on suspension a large part of the time."

Right now she's getting a real workout in "Three for the Show" at Columbia. She has several spirited dances directed by Jack Cole. On one of the hottest days of the year, she was under the glaring lights, trying to look cool in a comedy scene with Gower Champion. Gorgeously gowned in a fire-engine red outfit with a mink-lined coat to match, she stepped out of the scene to pose under some more hot lights for fashion stills.

When she was free, I asked how it felt to be doing a picture away from 20th Century-Fox for the first time in 14 years.

"Once you're inside the stage, there's not much difference," she observed. "The four walls look the same no matter what studio it is."

Things are much the same, since she has her same veteran "wrecking crew" — makeup man, hairdresser and wardrobe girl. In fact, everything has been done for her comfort.

"It's a funny thing," she laughed, "but this is the picture I got my last suspension over. I didn't want to do the picture. After I left Fox, they came to me again and I said I wanted things I didn't think they would give me. They surprised me and came through with everything I wanted, including CinemaScope. So I had to give in."

She talked about her last two pictures at Fox, which were "How to Marry a Millionaire" and "The Farmer Takes a Wife." Concerning the latter, she says: "That was a picture? It was all about hauling turnips or something on a canal barge. Who cares?"

"I threw the studio a curve on that picture. I had been on suspension for a year and told them I was ready to come back to work. They didn't have a thing ready for me. So they sent me the 'Farmer' script, which was originally planned for Mitzl Gaynor and Robert Wagner. They thought sure I'd turn it down. I fooled them."

"Thank Heaven I had a good picture like 'Millionaire' as my last at the studio. Otherwise I would have been dead."

Senate Begins Debate Today Over Hawaii

WASHINGTON — The Senate signaled for a start of debate today on statehood for Hawaii, with Democrats seeking to tie in Alaska statehood.

Sen. Cordon (R-Ore), chairman of the territories subcommittee of the Senate Interior Committee, arranged to lead off for Eisenhower administration forces on the measure, passed by the House last year, to make Hawaii the 49th state.

As the bill came up in the Senate, a delegation from Hawaii continued its rounds of senatorial offices seeking to persuade senators to let the Hawaii statehood bill come to a vote on its own merits.

The Hawaii group, including Republican and Democratic leaders in the Territorial Legislature, discussed the bill at a meeting yesterday in the office of Delegate Harrington (R-Hawaii).

Their consensus was that the Hawaii bill would pass the Senate handily if it came to a vote alone, but that a move to tie in Alaska has a 50-50 chance for success and would cloud the future.

Oren E. Long, former Democratic governor of Hawaii, told reporters that in his calls on Senate Democrats he found little hope they would vote against a move by Sen. Anderson (D-NM) to add the Alaska bill.

He said Democratic senators view the effort to achieve statehood for Alaska as well as Hawaii as "a partisan issue" on grounds that statehood for both territories is advocated in the Democratic party platform.

Traditionally, Hawaii has been Republican and Alaska Democratic.

Reds Charge American Spies Tempt Russian

TOKYO — The Russian mission today charged that "American spies" had tried to win over a Soviet ship captain to the United States with promises of $50,000 and asylum in California.

But the efforts failed, the mission said in a statement released to Japanese newsmen.

It called upon the Japanese government to "control the provocative actions of the American espionage corps."

The U.S. Far East Command did not comment immediately.

The Russian mission has had no legal position in Japan since the end of the occupation. Russia did not sign the Japanese Peace Treaty.

A Soviet spokesman identified the Russian skipper as a "Captain Kulikov." Presumably he referred to Capt. Philip Krekov, who was convicted last month on a technical charge of violating Japan's territorial waters. Krekov was nabbed off Japan's northernmost island of Hokkaido in a trap set for Japanese Communists.

He received a suspended sentence of one year and left Japan Monday on a Russian ship.

The Russian spokesman mentioned briefly the former chief of the Communist spy ring in Japan, Yuri Rastvorov, now in American hands.

"The fact that Yuri Rastvorov, former member of the mission, disappeared suddenly one month ago together with the facts mentioned in Kulikov's statement indicate that the American spies are taking provocative action as they desire against Soviet citizens for criminal purposes," he said.

The Soviet spokesman, F. Runov, said two Americans named Albert Parment and Edward Martin had threatened Kulikov. He quoted Kulikov as saying they had plied him with drinks and "tried to force me to sign a statement refusing to return to my home country."

FARM INCOME

AVERAGE WAS $882 IN 1953

WASHINGTON — The Agriculture Department reported today that the income of the farm population last year averaged $882 for each person compared with an average of $1,898 for the non-farm population.

These figures were said to represent a decrease of $23 from 1952 for the farm population and an increase of $36 for the non-farm population. The record average for the farm population — $886 — was said to have been reached in 1951.

Last year's $1,888 average was reported to be the highest on record for the non-farm population. The decline in the farm income reflected lower farm product prices.

The total income of the farm population from all sources was reported at $20,466,000,000 last year compared with $22,458,000,000 in 1952 and with the record of $23,700,000,000 in 1951.

The total income of the non-farm population was reported at a record of $239,099,000,000 last year. The reduction in the farm population income last year was about 8.8 per cent on an overall basis, but only about 3 per cent on an individual average basis. The number of persons living on farms last year was smaller than the year before.

Included in the income figures for the farm population was the value of farm products used in the family home, the rental value of farm dwellings and returns from non-farm sources, such as outside investments, wages for non-farm executive agreements.

The next rounds, Bricker said, will involve:

1. A reconsideration of the 60-31 vote by which the Senate rejected the proposed amendment. This was only passed on a version by Sen. George (D-Ga) greatly modified from Bricker's original plan. The Eisenhower administration opposed both.

The department said farm operators, as distinguished from farm laborers and other non-farm operators included in the farm population, realized a net income of $12,802,000,000 from farming operations last year compared with $14,153,000,000 in 1952 and with a record of $15,644,000,000 in 1951.

Farm production expenses were reported at $22,218,000,000 last year compared with $23,027,000,000 in 1952 and with $23,448,000,000 in 1951.

The department said the inventory value of crops and livestock held on farms declined $875,000,000 last year compared with an increase in value of $634,000,000 in 1952.

The average net income for the nation's farms was put at $2,212 last year compared with $2,357 in 1952 and with a record of $2,884 in 1948.

Rodick's substitute would have placed checks on the President's power to make international agreements which might affect domestic law, but did not involve the executive's treaty-making powers.

Bricker's original amendment was aimed at the treaty powers as well.

The Ohio senator said the deciding factor in the 60-31 vote was the furious lobbying of White House and State Department aides in the corridors of the Capitol, in the Senate cloakrooms and by telephone." He continued:

"By this form of personal and political pressure, enough votes were changed to prevent the amendment from being sent to the House of Representatives for its consideration.

"Although the administration claimed that the amendment breached the traditional line of demarcation between legislative and executive powers, the actual breach of that line occurred in the button-holing of senators by high officials of the White House staff and of the State Department."

Sen. Lennon (D-N.C.), a backer of the George proposal who was absent when the vote was taken, already has filed a motion to reconsider it. The Senate may act next week.

where Matteson is normally stationed. "Shore be glad to get them," he confessed. "These brahmams are skittish. They're rough to handle, especially afoot. They've worked me over a couple of times. Fortunately I wasn't hurt bad."

Most of the cattle were imported by the United States to improve the native stock. An experimental farm has been set up on Saipan under the supervision of Navy civil service worker Frank Brown.

Brown is sold on the brahmams as the best cattle for the islands.

"They resist ticks and prosper much better than other stock," he says.

Once they have produced a strain that does well on the islands, calves branded "U.S. Navy" will be distributed among native farmers where there's a ready market for meat. In 10 years, Brown thinks, the islands may have herds big enough for export.

Between Navy jobs, farming and work with metal salvage companies, Saipan natives manage to maintain a fairly strong economy.

The pace for a common laborer on Saipan is 37 cents an hour. Semiskilled workers make as much as $2,500 a year.

The islands are policed by a native constabulary which works under the Navy command.

In contrast to Guam and Kwajalein, none of the Navy structures on Saipan or neighboring islands are permanent.

From the air Timian and little Rota look like solid jungle. But standing out on the north end of Timian is the huge B29 field where the first atom bomb was assembled.

The building where the bomb was put together still stands.

Service stations, movies and stores have sprung up in Saipan's biggest town, Chalan Kanoa. There are three elementary and one intermediate school.

Children of naval personnel on the island go to separate schools. About 40 per cent of the Navy men here have their families with them.

It's not the most pleasant spot in the world, but if the Navy has its way, it some day may be one of the most pastoral.

Church Uses Jukebox
To Provide Music
For Lenten Services

CHICAGO—A transformed juke box was put into operation at opening of Lenten services at the Austin Westminster Presbyterian Church last night.

Hidden in a basement corner, it sent forth its spiritual message through a special loud-speaker in control box in the chapel, members may dial their choice of 24 favorites, including a meditative sermonette cut on record by the pastor, Dr. Clarence E. Showalter.

During Lent, anyone who wishes may enter the chapel for prayer, scripture and devotional music. There is a special free dial selector.

Dr. Showalter said his wife Elizabeth had qualms about putting the jukebox in the church. "During 30 years in the ministry," he said, "I've learned to see what the need is and do it, even if it seems a little out of the ordinary."

The foreign ministers of Venezuela, Cuba and Peru assailed communism in addresses yesterday as a grave threat to the Western Hemisphere, then said the best defense against it lies in economic development.

These speakers were Aureliano Otáñez of Venezuela, Miguel Angel Camilo of Cuba and Ricardo Rivera Schreiber of Peru. All emphasized that communism must be fought wherever it appears.

Conference circles said yesterday the United States planned to offer a resolution which would prohibit any American nation from recognizing a government which resorted to power under Communist influence.

Action After Learning
It Got Special Meal

READING, Pa.—The 18 members of the March Berks County grand jury issued a complaint after paying a quarterly inspection visit to county institutions that the bill-of-fare at the old folks home was just so-so. The menu: fried liver and onions.

They recommend dismissal of the home's dietician, Edna McGee of Philadelphia.

But at the county jail, the grand jury reported, the kitchen staff really put on a feed-steak with all the trimmings.

What the grand jury report failed to mention, however, was that the prison had one menu for the jurors and another for the inmates. At the old folks home, jurors and patients had the same meal.

This disclosure yesterday resulted in the County Commission postponing action on the dismissal recommendation.

Merry-Go-Round
Knowland's Heckling
Of Dulles Points to Split

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—When John Foster Dulles, the sincere, indefatigable secretary of state testified before the senate foreign relations committee last week, he almost wept. His voice choked as he said:

"I secured an agreement in writing that the Geneva conference would not constitute recognition of China, but even so I can't seem to please you gentlemen. It looks as if there's just no way we can conduct foreign relations to your liking."

What upset the secretary of state was the persistent, relentless heckling of the man who is supposed to lead Eisenhower's policies in the senate—William Knowland of California. The Democrats were sympathetic and asked helpful, encouraging questions. The Republican-majority leader heckled and objected.

The incident illustrates one phase of the growing split in the Republican party—a split not caused by Senator McCarthy, but widened and brought into sharper focus by him. It also illustrates the problem Eisenhower himself sooner or later will have to tackle. The longer he puts it off, the harder it will be. At present he has the prestige and popularity to tackle it successfully. If he puts it off, it may be too late.

What President Eisenhower has to realize is that the Republican party for years has been divided between the isolationists and those who believe in world cooperation. He has to realize that Senator McCarthy and the little group which brain-washed his secretary of the army, represent the extreme isolationist wing of the party, some of them neo-Fascist. And he has to realize that he has to side with one group or the other and begin leading the nation before the extremists take away control altogether.

Lessons of the Past

Eisenhower, a lifelong military man, probably doesn't realize it, but the Dulles-Knowland incident of a Republican senator heckling a Republican secretary of state has occurred often in the past.

This newsmen, as a young reporter covering the state department, watched example after example. The accumulation of these incidents eventually paved the way to war. Here are some of them:

Republican split No. 1, as far back as I can remember took place during the London Naval Conference in 1930 when some of us newsmen wrote stories that Henry L. Stimson, then secretary of state and one of the most revered leaders of the Republican party, proposed a consultative pact. This pact merely pledged the United States to consult in case war threatened. It pledged no use of troops or anything else; merely that we would talk things over.

But after our news stories broke, Stimson called a press conference in London at which he confirmed them; while Herbert Hoover called a press conference in the White House at which he denied that the United States would enter a consultative pact. The isolationist wing of the GOP triumphed.

GOP split No. 2 occurred when the Japanese war lords entered Manchuria on Sept. 18, 1931. Secretary of State Stimson immediately saw this for what it was—the beginning of a Japanese attempt to dominate all Asia. I remember writing that he had contacted the Canadian, Mexican and Chilean governments to ask if they would cooperate with us in the Pacific in case of war; and I remember Stimson calling me up to his house that night to ask that I not write any more along that line because it was making things difficult for him at the White House and with the isolationist wing of the Republican party. The story, he said, was true, but embarrassing.

Heading Off War

What Stimson wanted was to head off Japanese aggression before it blossomed into war. The isolationists, on the other hand, didn't want to get even remotely involved. And later when Stimson instructed the U. S. consul general at Geneva to sit in as observer during the League of Nations' efforts to block Japan, the isolationists even forced him to withdraw the observer.

Had Henry L. Stimson, an energetic, liberal Republican, been able to build up the peace machinery of the world when the seeds of war first sprouted in 1930-31-32, there might well have been no second world war. But he was blocked by the isolationists.

GOP split No. 3 was tackled by another great Republican, Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan. It was Vandenberg who worked with Roosevelt and later Truman to try to keep American foreign policy out of partisan politics. And I remember a talk I had with Vandenberg about a year before he died. He looked tired and complained about his headaches. But even more, he complained about the trouble given him by his own Republican colleagues in the Senate. And he named McCarthy, Knowland and some of the men who are giving Eisenhower and Dulles trouble today.

It was Vandenberg, of course, who picked Paul Hoffman for the important job of administering the Marshall Plan. It was also Vandenberg who arranged with Dean Acheson to put John Foster Dulles right inside the state department alongside the Democrats.

But Vandenberg is dead now, and the man who in part has taken his place as senate Republican leader has been the chief heckler of the Eisenhower foreign policies.

Does Ike Understand?

Another conversation which I remember vividly was with General Eisenhower at NATO headquarters in Paris in 1952. Having been among those who had talked to him early about running for president, I had the temerity to point out that his chief problem, as president, would be with the isolationist wing of the Republican party, the China lobby, and one of its chief spokesmen, Senator McCarthy.

General Eisenhower listened carefully. But it was obvious from the questions he asked that he did not understand that phase of the problem ahead of him.

Today, of course, he certainly should understand it. But as some of his best friends among the newspaper publishers have warned him, he will have to move vigorously if the McCarthy-

It Is Possible For a Child To Outgrow Heart Murmur

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

A generation ago if a physician heard a heart murmur in a youngster, he was likely to put that child to bed, perhaps for months, or at the very least, to instruct the parents and the youngster he or she must refrain from all sports or anything else requiring more than the slightest exertion.

We know that in many cases this was not only unnecessary, but a grave error since many of those with slight heart murmurs were perfectly capable of taking part in ordinary sports or other activities. This concentrated fear of heart disease made them practically mental invalids.

I do not mean to imply that this kind of treatment was always wrong, but certainly today there has been a change for the better in judging the seriousness of heart murmurs, and deciding what, if anything, should be done for them.

In some children, for example, the growth of the heart and the valves inside the heart do not keep pace with each other, so that the valves allow a small amount of blood to slip back, causing a murmur to be heard over the region of the valve. This kind of murmur is not due to disease, and tends to disappear as the youngster grows older. Actually, it is the failure of the valves between the four chambers of the heart to hold back the blood which causes the murmur.

There are also serious cases for murmurs which result from abnormality of the heart valves present at birth or caused by disease. The valve deformities present at birth are fairly rare and can usually be discovered quite early. Some can be corrected by surgery. Most of the valve troubles which cause murmurs in youth are caused by rheumatic fever. Even this, however, can be so mild that nothing serious ever develops.

Fever Damages Valves

Rheumatic fever injures the heart valves by causing growths on the lips or cusps of the valves so that they cannot close completely. If the damage to heart valves has been severe, the murmur may mean that physical activity has to be curtailed. However, in many cases the growths are small and not active and even though they have produced enough damage to cause a murmur to be heard, the heart is able to do its job without trouble.

In all heart murmurs an accurate diagnosis of cause and degree of damage must be made. The mere presence of a murmur in the heart is not enough, nor does it always mean that ordinary exercise has to be eliminated, or that there will be any serious interference with life or health. Physicians have learned much about this in the past 50 years.

Congressional Editor

Citizens interested in the right of the press to criticize and to evaluate the news, must have read with some misgivings the proposal of Rep. Harold Velde, chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, to investigate press coverage of his committee's doings.

It's rather puzzling to figure how Velde would justify the expense of such an inquiry. He had asked one of his staff people to travel from Washington New York to check on wire service handling of committee stories.

To what effect? Suppose the investigator felt the handling was inadequate. Would the committee then propose legislation setting minimum volume levels on such news coverage? Or would it content itself merely with public complaint?

Like any other agency of society, the press must be held to account for fulfillment of its public responsibility. But it seems doubtful that the way to do this is to have congressional committee chairmen measure inches of type with a ruler.

isolationist wing of the Republican party is not to get completely out of hand.

Bulletproof Glass Would Have Averted Shooting

WASHINGTON—The spectacular gun-spraying of congress by three Puerto Rican fanatics would never have happened if economy-minded congressmen had taken the advice of the professional security officers.

Ever since July, 1947 when a disgruntled ex-Capitol cop took a couple of potshots at Ohio's GOP Sen. John Bricker, professional security officers have argued the installation of bullet-proof glass in front of the senate and house galleries. They also recommend revamping the Capitol police force to eliminate many of the inexperienced old men and young college students who hold patronage jobs as guards.

These proposals were pressed privately by plain-clothes men Mike Dowd and Carl Champ both metropolitan police captains who are detailed on Capitol Hill. Capitol Police Chief William Broderick, a veteran law-enforcement officer, has also advocated the bulletproof glass.

They appealed privately to the Capitol house-keeping committee that it is impossible to "frisk" every visitor to the galleries for concealed weapons; that it would be a simple matter for a fanatic to toss an old shoebox containing a bomb onto the floor of the senate or house.

In the interests of economy, senators and congressmen rejected the bulletproof glass. When Broderick came in as police chief, however, they gave him more leeway in selecting his own men for the Capitol police force.

It isn't generally known, but the Secret Service sends the Capitol police a complete description of every crackpot who writes a threatening letter to the President or any other governmental official.

Note—After Monday's shooting, government security officers threw a special guard around Secretary of Interior McKay, who is personally in charge of Puerto Rican matters. For years, Puerto Rican Gov. Luis Munoz-Marin has been so careful of Puerto Rican fanatics that he takes a special bodyguard wherever he goes, changes hotels every day, and registers under an assumed name.

It Looks Pretty Silly From Where We Sit

The World Today-- McCarthy Thrives On Rebuffs

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (P)—Like Antaeus, the mythological giant who regained his strength every time he touched the earth, Sen. McCarthy seems to gain added confidence after each encounter with the Eisenhower administration.

So far, the comparison ends there. For, while Hercules at last held Antaeus in the air and crushed him, President Eisenhower has shown no eagerness to rush into a decisive, party-splitting struggle with the Wisconsin Republican.

Even his statement yesterday on the way he wants McCarthy to treat generals—billed in advance by his aides as something to watch for was far milder than McCarthy's fast reply on what he'd do with generals when he sees fit.

As Wednesday may be remembered as the day when Eisenhower and McCarthy issued a kind of manifesto to each other, but it was merely a day of talk. What they do in the future remains to be seen.

If McCarthy follows his usual pattern, he will do nothing for a while which might prod Eisenhower into a full-scale break. Then, after an interval, he'll run headlong into the administration again down some new avenue.

He has had a number of such collisions in the past year. Each was followed by a brief period of comparative quiet. Then, and always from a fresh direction, McCarthy crashed against the administration again, but harder.

It's difficult to believe this can continue indefinitely without (1) an explosion or (2) a crushing humiliation for Eisenhower or the senator. It's possible that in a contest with Eisenhower McCarthy may overreach himself.

He's a hard infighter but, nevertheless, yesterday he showed he can be needled into going further than he seemed to intend, that he can be pushed off balance. This was a side of him not seen quite this way before. It could happen again.

Within one hour after the President had issued an 800-word statement, the senator issued a statement of his own, containing this sentence: "Apparently the President and I now agree on the necessity of getting rid of Communists."

Since McCarthy had made a ca-

The Rev. C. V. Criss, district superintendent for the Methodist Episcopal Church, was at Lincoln in an effort to sell the Methodist Church edifice and parsonage in that city. The reason was many members moving elsewhere and others attending the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

BY ROSEMARY CLOONEY
 (Written for NEA Service)

Probably the most challenging aspect of our design for wholesome living has been getting my husband to rest during the day. To keep his weight up, he would have to learn to keep tension down.

When Joe is not acting, he is producing, directing, making records or taking guitar, dancing or fencing lessons.

Of course, a lot of his time is spent looking over or studying scripts. Obviously, therein lay an opportunity for rest. All I had to do was encourage him to take advantage of it.

Whether he had five minutes or an hour to read, doing it in a completely relaxed position would be a great help. The doctor had pointed out to us that several short rest periods during the day would be as effective, if not more effective, than one long one.

As soon as he discovered that he could concentrate as well on his scripts while reclining as when pacing back and forth, Joe was willing to cooperate. And when he realized that he bounced back to work with renewed energy after the shortest rest, he really became enthusiastic.

Now, anytime he picks up a script, or a book, he looks around for a comfortable place to stretch out. At home, his feet are more often draped over the back of a couch than they are on the floor. And there are no pleas on behalf of the furniture or of decorum forthcoming from this housewife.

Although his long statement clearly was pointed at McCarthy, he never mentioned his name. He talked about fair play, said he didn't want government employees mistreated by congressional committees. He never said precisely what he'd do if they were.

Nevertheless, this was the closest he had come to an open challenge to McCarthy. McCarthy's quick reply was much less reticent about whom he was talking to and about. He mentioned the President.

As a Sedalia woman watched through her window she was certain that the robin was going to be sorry—but, evidently he wasn't. He flopped his wings around in the water, he ducked his little head in, he fluttered and rolled in the water. Then out he hopped, shook himself a little, and hopped right in again. Maybe he felt like chirping to some of the other birds: "Come on in, fellows, the water's fine." Maybe he just wanted it all to himself. Anyway he jumped out again and then back in for another long session of ducking and fluttering around in the water. When he got out he was so wet the woman didn't see how he could ever fly away—but he did, his little wet feathers sticking up all over like a porcupine. The small pair of wings spread out and away he went.—H.L.

Next move? It's up to McCarthy. If he pursues his investigation and roughs up Army people, he'll be challenging Eisenhower to snap his whip. McCarthy could do as he has done in the past: let this case cool off, not force Eisenhower's hand, try something else later.

Saint Patrick's Day Exhibit By High Point at Courthouse

High Point School has a St. Patrick's Day exhibit posted in the reception room to the office of C. F. Scotten, county superintendent of schools. The entire exhibit is bordered with green paper shamrocks, and a center bears a picture of an Irishman's green hat, shamrock and clay pipe.

The exhibit is divided into three panels and a display. In the left panel are several posters, two of them showing mitten designs and another showing a spray of pussy willow in a vase. There is also a dish colored in paint and crayon, a paper hyacinth, two plates bearing paper portraits and a group of photographs of the classes.

The center panel is dominated by the figure of a little boy flying several kites, the strings of which cut diagonally across the panel. There is a graph of arithmetic grades, a series of blotter pictures, another plate colored with paint and crayon, another hyacinth, posters showing exercises in art and arithmetic and in writing. Small green and white baskets of woven paper are scattered through the larger items. Several booklets treat of such subjects as writing, rocks, transportation, good manners and "Farm Wood Lot."

The right panel contains two relief maps showing territories as they were added to the United States. Another group of photographs show the High Point students. There are two booklets of repeat designs, another pussy willow poster, a booklet showing the correlation of art and writing and

Watchdog Acquires Hearing Aid

CHICAGO — His owners, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Winter, knew something was wrong six months ago when Silkie, a 12-year-old spaniel and previously an excellent watch dog, "began missing the door bell."

The Winters took their problem to an animal hospital, and then to the general manager of a hearing aid company.

A model designed to be hidden in a woman's hair was installed yesterday under a floppy left ear and once again a delighted Silkie responded to the door bell.

A spokesman for Skouras said

Dr. Langendorf was called in as

Several Teams Already Set For the NIAB

NEW YORK — Because major college basketball statistics include post-season tournament performances just as if they were part of the regular schedule, the final placings of the nation's top scorers are far from being determined. Nine of the top 14 men are slated for post season tourney play.

Their fantastic averages—ranging from the unpreceded 42.6 points a game of Furman's Frank Selby down to the 24-plus of Wake Forest's Dick Hemric in 4th place—will be tested against the strongest possible opposition in NCAA, National Invitation and conference tournaments. Just how high these scoring averages can be realized from the fact that only four years ago Villanova's Paul Arizin won the title with 25.5.

Selvy's immediate assignment is the Southern Conference tourney, which opens today. If his team wins, he will go on to the NCAA.

Togo Palazzi of Holy Cross, Al Bianchi of Bowling Green and Tom Marshall of Western Kentucky are in the NIT. Oklahoma City's Armer Short and Navy's Don Lange are in the NCAA and most likely, Indiana's Don Schmidt.

The tourneys should also settle the field goal percentage shooting championship. George Washington's Joe Holup has 57.8 percent, Niagara's Chuck Hoxie 57.4 and Oklahoma A&M's Bob Mattick 56.6.

Hi Fi Fans Get Up to Neck In New Style Loudspeakers

By ED CREAIGH

WASHINGTON — Clamp on your earmuffs, people. The woe and tweet boys, sometimes known as the hi-fi hounds, are coming to town.

You've met some of them already, chances are. "Hi-fi," of course, stands for high fidelity. It does not mean, in this case, the quality you esteem in a husband or wife. It means the attempt to make the noise that comes out of a phonograph record sound exactly like the noise that went into it.

Now hi-fi, like the drinking of schnapps, can be a hobby, a part-time occupation or a way of life. Also, like schnapps drinking, it's treacherous. You say to yourself, "I'll buy just one more gadget and then swear off"—and the next thing you know you're up to your attic in loudspeakers.

And boy what a financial hangover! You can look into this pastime, which is just short of becoming a national craze, all during next weekend if you're in town. The first "hi-fi fair" ever held in these parts is setting up shop in a downtown hotel, and it ought to be quite an experience, if your ears can stand it.

For there's one thing about these hi-fi hounds—they never can stand having a record-player, to turn down to a reasonable level. The sound volume has to approach patient for three more weeks. Her room number is 520.

Thomas Lee Martin remains in a critical condition in a hospital in Colorado. Tommie is a former resident of this community, having attended high school here and his parents still reside in Benton County.

Customers Scatter As Sally Descends

INVERNESS, Scotland — Customers in a local vegetable shop broke and ran yesterday when plaster showered from the ceiling, followed by a cow named Sally.

Sally was a refugee from a nearby auction market.

She'd climbed a flight of stairs adjoining the shop to elude pursuit, only to have the landing collapse under her weight.

ford the 16-room house with sound-proof walls that really should go with a hi-fi system.

1. You seldom had any place to sit. His apartment was crammed from kitchenette to window sill with speakers, coils, piles of records, stacks of hi-fi trade publications and—in the middle of it all—awful iron. I don't know if he had the waffle iron plugged into the hi-fi system or not, but I suspect he did. His waffles certainly were, as the hi-fi hounds say, in the groove.

2. You couldn't hear John or he couldn't hear you. All you could hear—all the neighbors could hear, for that matter—was Mozart or Edith Piaf or whatever record Randolph had revolving on one of his many turntables. Conversation other than that old gag: "Isn't that a wonderful record?" "Still can't hear you." "I said you're shouting at the top of your lungs now—" "Isn't that a fine record?" "Can't hear a thing you say—this confounded record makes too much noise!"

If I sound envious of the hi-fi hounds with their "woofers," which are big speakers to catch the low notes, and their "tweeters," little speakers to pick up the high notes, it's because I am envious. "I'd like to put together one of those fancy outfits, too. Trouble is I can't afford it."

Football Pops, Saves Burning Property

ALTADEA, Calif. — Firemen say that when a football exploded in the burning garage of John M. Eikenberry it saved his property.

Spontaneous combustion in oil-soaked waste started the fire yesterday. The heat burst the football and the noise attracted Eikenberry's attention. He turned on a garden hose until firemen arrived.

State Attorney Turns Bookie Momentarily

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. — The horse players who telephoned their wagers to a certain East St. Louis handbook about 2:30 p.m. yesterday were just wasting their time. All bets are off.

The fellow who answered the telephone and took the bets was Richard T. Carter, state's attorney for St. Clair County.

Carter chanced by the handbook while a police raid was in progress.

He found the telephones

"ringing like mad," so he answered them. None of the bettors seemed suspicious, he said.

It cost Columbus about $36,000 to discover America, payroll for the 90 men aboard his three ships being about $3,500 per month.

WE SERVICE EVERYTHING WE SELL !!

AFTER THIRTY YEARS

After thirty years, we must ask for an increase in gas rates

Our rate structure is one of the lowest in the country and will continue to be

And, your cost for this most desirable fuel will still be less than what you would pay for competitive fuels

For thirty years, there has been no general increase in our rates for natural gas sold to distributors.

Our rate structure is one of the lowest of all comparable natural gas systems in the United States.

Now, high costs force us to ask for an adjustment.

The Things We Must Buy Cost More

Cities Service Gas Company purchases at the source approximately 75 per cent of the natural gas which we supply to our customers—the local gas companies—through 6,000 miles of pipelines in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska—to 336 cities and communities in this fast-growing area.

Our present rate structure is based on actual costs of operation in the year 1941. Since that year, the cost of just about everything that you buy has gone up. The same is true of the things we must buy. Average cost of the gas purchased by the company has increased 130 per cent. Wages have risen 200 per cent. Everything else we need to serve you has gone the same way—up.

We Must Keep Expanding Service In Your Growing Communities

To keep step with the growth of our marketing areas, and with the public's demand for more and more of this superior and lowest-priced of all fuels, Cities Service Gas Company to date has invested 155 million dollars in facilities to bring natural gas to you. Another 10 million dollars will be required in 1954. These huge expenditures are essential, and must continue if we are to provide adequate service to you and your neighbors.

We're The Last Major Company To Ask For An Increase

We are proud of the fact that Cities Service Gas Company is the last major pipeline to request rate relief. Over the years, we have held the line on rates by managing carefully, by developing volume, by increasing our number of customers, and by building up industrial use of natural gas during periods when household demand is low.

But, The Time Has Now Come

The time has now arrived when we must seek an adjustment. We are notifying our distributors that, within the next few weeks, we shall file with the Federal Power Commission an application for rate increases on natural gas sold to distributors for resale. This application must be filed at least 30 days prior to the effective date of requested increases. Studies required by Federal Power Commission procedure are now in progress. These studies will determine the amount of increase which it will be necessary to ask.

You, The Public, Are Entitled To Know The Facts

We have always believed, and still do, that the public's primary interest is in the best possible service at a rate adequate to assure the continuance of that service. It is our job to furnish the kind of gas service you want and need. We will ask for only enough to do that job—and no more. We shall keep you informed from time to time, through your local newspaper.

CITIES SERVICE GAS COMPANY

Glenn W. Clark, President

This statement is being published throughout our marketing areas, and for the information of our friends and neighbors in adjacent areas.

Japanese Is Refused Permission to Leave Cell to See Funeral

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Tomoya Kawakita will not be allowed to leave Alcatraz Prison, where he is serving a life term for treason, to attend his father's funeral here tomorrow.

Morris Lavine, attorney for the Japanese American during his trial, said he asked the permission but that James V. Bennett, director of federal prisons, denied the request.

Kawakita's conviction was based on his activities as overseer of a Japanese prisoner of war camp and his treatment of United States prisoners.

Winter Meals

Planning, preparing and serving meals is a year round task which all homemakers face every day. The meals you serve, day by day, and month by month, play a big part in keeping your family healthy now — and also in the future.

Winter meals used to be much more difficult than summer meals. Thirty years ago we had no frozen foods, our assortment of canned foods was limited, and in most towns there were few shipped in fresh fruits and vegetables. Now, in most towns, it's easier to find good, fresh vegetables on the market in winter than in the summer.

If you have a good garden right at your back door all summer, furthermore, if they have a freezer locker and do some canning, your family can have fruits and vegetables throughout the year.

In winter when most of us are subjected to greater changes of temperature and spend less time outdoors, it's especially important to eat plenty of the protective foods. These foods protect us from colds, virus infections, and many other minor ailments.

Right now is a good time to look carefully at your three meals. Has every member of the family had milk or cheese today? It's good planning for children to have milk every meal and grownups at least one meal a day.

Every day we need at least one serving of a dark green or deep yellow vegetable, such as some greens or broccoli, carrots or sweet potatoes. Head lettuce, cabbage, green lima beans, or mature snap beans are not green enough to provide all of the nutrients we hope to get from our green or yellow vegetables.

Also, we need some vitamin C-rich foods such as fresh or frozen raw fruits or vegetables, or citrus fruits, or tomatoes. And in every meal there should be some animal protein — meat, eggs, milk, or cheese.

To help keep your family up and going and eager for each day's work and play, check your meals and see how they measure up. Do they look and taste good? Is there variety from meal to meal — so you yourself don't get weary of the day after day job of "three squares a day?" Do your meals contain lots of milk and milk products? Is there a dark green or deep yellow vegetable every day? Have you included a vitamin C-rich food and some milk, meat, egg, or cheese every meal? Do your meals include a wide variety of foods, different flavors and textures, and does your family now and then enjoy favorite dishes from other lands? If your winter meals measure up well on these points, enjoy them and forget them — you're doing fine.

Women Have Star Role In Home Safety

An alert, safety-conscious homemaker can do wonders to protect her family from needless injuries by using practical safety measures every day. Take falls which account for a high percentage of all home injuries. Here are a few suggestions anyone can use which will help prevent falls. To make your home a safer place: Tack or cement kitchen linoleum flat. Be sure there is a non-slip mat for use near the bathtub or shower. Tack stair coverings down securely. Be sure halls and stairs are well lighted, and that stairs have handrails. Buy yourself a sturdy stepladder for use in reaching a high shelf or hanging curtains — don't improvise one from a chair and tricky stool. As a homemaker, you can set the pace for safety in the home which will spread to safety on the farm and a consciousness of safety wherever any member of your family may go.

Lighten the Laundry Task

Many homemakers find that doing the family laundry is their hardest job. But there are a number of short-cuts which women can use to lighten this task. The following suggestions might well be considered: Train family members to put soiled articles in hamper or laundry bag. Arrange surface for sorting laundry to avoid stooping. Have your laundry tubs high enough to avoid back strain. Group laundry equipment and supplies for convenience and efficiency. Use a cart or wagon to take clothes to line — this will help you avoid unnecessary stooping and lifting. When taking clothing from the line, eliminate extra ironing by careful folding. Use stretchers for pants, slacks and overalls. Be sure your ironing board is the correct height for sitting or standing. Don't be afraid to try something different that may make your washday easier.

You Can Make Magic With Hot Bread

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Hot bread tricks come in mighty handy during Lent. They'll help you vary those meatless meals and give such a satisfying touch. Take these Cheese Chips — delicate little biscuits made of cornmeal and pancake ready - mix, rolled in potato chips, then baked with a cube of cheese in the center. They taste delicious with a soup or salad; they're perfect for an afternoon or evening snack.

For a meatless main course, we suggest Cornbread Shortcake with Mushroom Cheese Sauce. It's a hearty dish that will satisfy even the most robust appetites in your family.

Cheese Chips

Ingredients: 1½ cups pancake ready - mix, ½ cup enriched cornmeal, 1-3 cup shortening, 2-3 cup milk, ½ cup crushed potato chips, 20 small cubes processed American cheese.

Method: Mix together pancake ready-mix and cornmeal. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add milk all at once, stirring lightly only until mixture is dampened. (Dough will be quite soft.) Using about 1 tablespoon of the dough for each, shape into small balls. Roll balls in crushed potato chips. Place the balls on a lightly greased cookie sheet; make a thumb print in the center of each of the balls. Fill each hole with a small cube of cheese. Bake in a hot (440°) oven 10 to 12 minutes. Makes 18 to 20 biscuits.

Cornbread Shortcake

Ingredients: ½ cup butter or margarine, ½ cup finely diced green pepper, 1 cup sifted flour, 1 cup cornmeal, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 egg (beaten), 1 cup buttermilk.

Method: Melt butter in saucepan over moderate heat. Add onion and cook about 1 minute. Stir in flour, salt and pepper. Add milk and mushrooms, including liquid in can. Cook, stirring constantly,

CHEESE CHIPS—Use them with soup or salad.

Sunday's roast deserves glamor treatment! Serve leg of lamb with mint-jelly filled canned peas. Put a little chopped preserved ginger along with a dot of butter or margarine in the cavities of canned peaches; broil until hot through and offer with baked ham. Stuff drained cooked prunes with American cheese, 1 cup cooked drained green peas.

Mushroom Cheese Sauce

Ingredients: ½ cup butter or margarine, ½ cup finely diced green pepper, 1 cup sifted flour, 1 cup cornmeal, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 egg (beaten), 1 cup buttermilk.

Method: Melt butter in saucepan over moderate heat. Add onion and cook about 1 minute. Stir in flour, salt and pepper. Add milk and mushrooms, including liquid in can. Cook, stirring constantly,

Those In Areas of Flouride Supply Have Best Teeth

Some 3,500,000 people in the United States have lived for generations in areas served by water systems containing beneficial amounts of fluoride put there by nature.

No single objection to the program has withstood the test of scientific investigation. And evidence has continued to mount daily in favor of the procedure.

Unfortunately, families living in rural areas where public water supplies do not exist must depend on means other than fluoridation of drinking water to reduce decay.

One such method is the application by a dentist of sodium fluoride directly to the child's teeth, beginning at the age of three. This method, called topical application of sodium fluoride, has been found to reduce tooth decay by an average of 40 per cent.

Words of caution have been issued by both the American Dental Association and the American Medical Association against the unsupervised use of commercial preparations containing fluoride. They stress that the use of such products is impractical, scientifically unsound, and may be dangerous to health.

Teeth Begin Forming During Child's Pre-Natal Life

Occasionally an infant arrives through the world with one or two six and eight months old. teeth appearing through the gums. By the time the child is about two and a half years old, he usually has all his first teeth. That teeth. But deep in his jawbones, when the youngster should be 20 first or primary teeth which make his first visit to the dentist, begin to form early in prenatal life. The myth that a child's first teeth are not important because they are going to fall out anyway can be very harmful. There can be grave consequences if first teeth are lost too early or are retained too long.

One of the results of inattention to first teeth may be irregular second teeth. When first teeth come out prematurely, other nearby teeth may shift and move, thus preventing the proper alignment of second teeth.

The result may be that second teeth appear out of position, not only impairing chewing ability but presenting an unsightly, unattractive appearance.

The first permanent teeth to appear do not replace other teeth. They erupt back of the first teeth and are called the "sixth-year molars" because they usually appear when the child is about six. There are four of these molars and permanent teeth are forming with them in the jaws, the child should begin maintaining even alignment of all the teeth.

With the exception of the so-called "wisdom teeth," all of a child's second teeth should be in when the boy or girl is about 12.

Use leftover chicken or turkey this way. Put a layer of drained canned asparagus in a shallow heatproof dish; add a layer of thinly sliced chicken or turkey; top with cream sauce and a generous sprinkling of grated Parmesan or cheddar cheese. Heat in a moderate oven, putting the dish under the broiler for a second—if necessary—to brown the top.

LACE-TOPPED CHOCOLATE CAKE is inexpensive to make and looks just like the kind grandma used to bake.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Remember your grandmother's cake with powdered sugar topping? Well, here's a modern version perfected from one of our South Carolina friends.

With eggs on the plentiful list you won't mind the three in the recipe, and nutritious nonfat dry milk is also an economical buy.

A one-pound package, available at the grocers, yields five quarts of dairy - sweet nonfat milk for as little as nine cents a quart.

Nonfat dry milk, which is milk with only the fat and water removed, is rich in protein, calcium, riboflavin and lactose.

Lace-Topped Chocolate Cake
(Makes two 9-inch layers)

One and three-quarters cups sifted flour, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup nonfat dry milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 2-3 cup shortening, $\frac{1}{2}$ cups sugar, 3 eggs, $\frac{1}{2}$ squares (2 $\frac{1}{2}$ ounces) unsweetened chocolate, melted, $\frac{1}{2}$ cups water.

Sift together flour, nonfat dry milk powder, soda and salt. Cream shortening. Gradually add sugar, beating until light and fluffy. Add eggs one at a time; beat until smooth. Stir in melted chocolate; blend well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with water, beginning and ending with flour mixture. Beat for 1 minute or about 150 strokes. Grease two 9-inch cake pans. Line with waxed paper and grease again. Pour mixture into pans. Bake in moderate oven for 35 minutes. Cool. Frost with frosting of choice.

Frosting: $\frac{1}{2}$ cup nonfat dry milk, 1 cup powdered sugar, 1 egg white, 1/8 teaspoon vanilla.

Beat until smooth. Spread over top of cake layers. Decorate sugar through a lace doily.

People Still Buying When Liking Prices

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—People are still buying—when they think the price is right.

There are few signs of a concerted "buyers' strike"—even on coffee. But there are increasing signs that when consumers think prices are too high they are either waiting, haggling for discounts, or seeking out "bootleg" cars and other goods.

Some businessmen are beginning to wonder if a stitch in time isn't in order—a fresh look now at pricing practices rather than risking the necessity of painful cutting later.

Many manufacturers can make out a good case for the prices on their goods, citing higher production costs and operating expenses. Many retailers hesitate to lower their traditional mark-ups—their costs are up, too.

But if March doesn't bring the business pick-up that they and Washington hope for, other ways of stimulating consumer buying may be in order. And just cutting taxes mayn't be all that's needed.

Signs of consumer restlessness are growing. The big auto makers complain that "bootleggers" are selling new cars at less than the prices set by the auto dealers.

There are also complaints that while new car sales rose in February over January, they were still eight per cent lower than a year ago. But, expecting good business in a few weeks, both Chrysler and Hudson are calling back laid-off workers this week.

Television set makers report a marked pickup in their sales—after there had been considerable price shaving and offering of new models in lower price ranges.

Food stores report that consumer buying is still high. But housewives will switch quickly from one kind of meat to another when the price gets out of line with their budget.

Coffee sales slid when prices soared. And the Tea Council of the U. S. A. Inc. reports that tea sales hit an all-time high in January, up 22 per cent over the like month in 1953.

HONG KONG (AP)—The Chinese Reds, taking a cue from Marilyn Monroe's highly successful tour of South Korea, have sent Mei Lanfang, touring Communist army camps.

But there is one big difference. Mei is a man.

Corned Beef and Cabbages Make Fine St. Patrick's Dish

By GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Food and Markets Editor

Looking ahead to March 17th St. Patrick's Day, it's time to quality corned beef in 12-ounce cans.

Here are good ideas on that subject we learned in Chicago last week. One of the food experts we met suggested a platter of corned beef and "little cabbages" (Brussels sprouts) for St. Patrick's Day dinner. With it goes a creamy mustard and horseradish sauce.

Corned beef varies according to quality of the meat, and the method of curing. For the first time, corned beef is now being sold in family-sized packages of 2 to 4 pounds. They are branded, so you can make certain every purchase is the same quality and cure your family prefers. If time is short and your family small, your market offers fine talk corned beef.

You'll find the new packaged briskets carry complete cooking instructions on the wrapper. Corned beef is easy to prepare, but make certain you give it plenty of time to cook slowly in water to cover. Allow approximately an hour per pound, making certain the water is at the simmering, not boiling, temperature. If you wish, you may add the cabbage during the last 15 minutes of cooking.

Another expert suggested a "dress-up" version of corned beef. After water cooking, remove the brisket from the broth and cut the fat covering into diagonals to form diamond shapes, as you would a ham. Spread with prepared mustard and sprinkle lightly with sifted brown sugar.

Stick a whole clove into the center of each diamond and place the brisket in a shallow pan. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 20 minutes. While the meat is glazing to a golden perfection, cook the 1 tablespoon mustard, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup fresh or frozen Brussels sprouts or lemon juice, 1 tablespoon grated horseradish.

and horseradish. Serve hot or pedia Britannica. 8 minutes.

Vary Lenten Meals With Sardines

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Something different, something piquant is what we have for you today. So many times during Lent we hear: "I'm tired of serving fish the same old way. Hasn't anyone any new ideas?" That's a challenge we like!

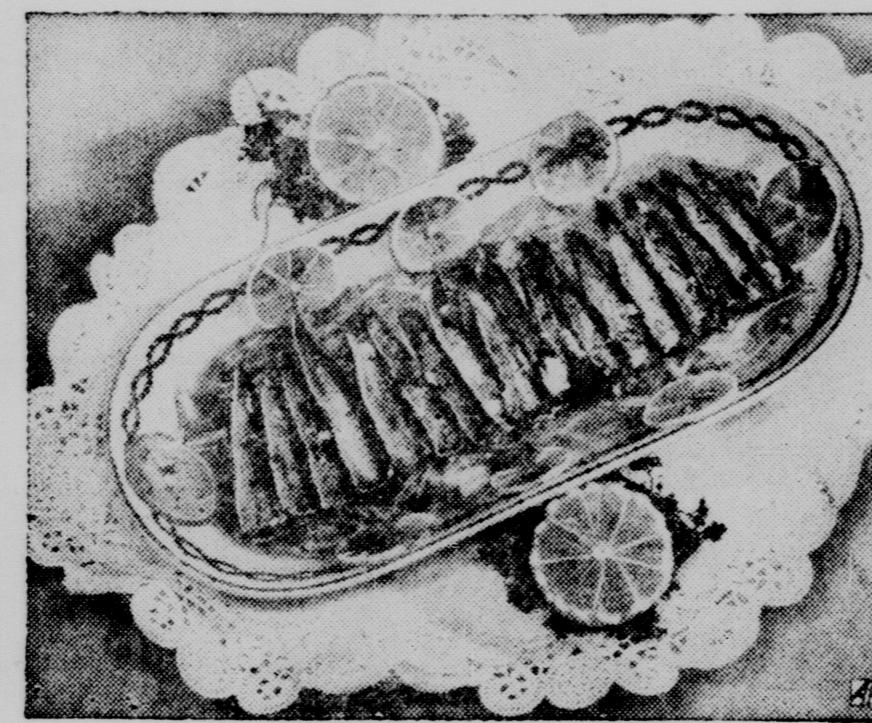

Here, cooks, is a dish created by one of New York's best chefs; then tried — and enjoyed — in this food editor's kitchen. The recipe features a seafood available to everyone — Norway sardines from handy cans. A can of these savory tidbits tops this delicious and interesting first course, Sardines Viveur. When you serve this dish you'll be eating delightfully. We like Sardines Viveur for lunch followed by an omelette and a favorite variety of cheese, then fruit and tea or coffee. If you use this menu, have lots of hard rolls on hand for both the Sardines Viveur and the cheese — and don't forget the sweet butter.

You'll notice that this recipe calls for cutting the vegetables in matchstick size strips. Do observe this direction; they taste best that way in this particular dish.

Sardines Viveur

Ingredients: 1 rib celery, 2 medium-size carrots, 1 small onion, 1 tablespoon olive oil, 1/4 cup cooking sherry, 1 bay leaf, 1 small clove garlic, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 8 thin slices lemon (peeled), one 3 1/4 ounce can Norway sardines.

Method: Clean celery and carrots; peel onion. Cut celery and carrots into matchstick size strips (juliennes). Slice onion into thin strips. Heat the olive oil in an 8-inch skillet. Add celery, carrots and onion. Cook gently about 5 minutes, stirring a few times. Add sherry and bay leaf; crush garlic into skillet; mix thoroughly. Simmer until vegetables are tender-crisp and most of the liquid has evaporated — about 5 minutes. Chill about 6 hours to blend flavors. At serving time, remove bay leaf; arrange vegetables in serving dish; drain sardines and Norway sardines contain from 20 pieces over vegetables. Garnish to 22 whole sardines.

For another interesting luncheon dish we like to serve a cheddar cheese sauce with sardines. We season the sauce with a little dry mustard, Worcestershire sauce and curry powder; then add some drained canned tomatoes. Just spoon the hot sauce over toast, then garnish with the sardines.

Another good combination is tomato aspic on salad greens with sardines. At this time of year we're likely to add some finely diced celery to the aspic for something crunchy; in summer it's usually cucumbers that go in. Try this combination, we think you'll like it.

Rice was graduated with the class of 1952 from La Monte High School, where he was a four-year letterman in basketball and president of the senior class. Employed as a clerk at Kroger's grocery, he was sworn in as a recruit in the U.S. Coast Guard. Rice also attended CMSC, Warrensburg. His brother, Preston, is currently serving with the U.S. Air Force in Bitburg, Germany.
